

"RAZZISTA, IO?!"

Reviews by Sara Lorusso and Fabio Scianatico

What do the students think?

The short film "Razzista io?!" by Giuseppe Massarelli talks about racism, discrimination and migrations. The short film talks about events that happen every day in real life. I really like the part where the mom finds out that her daughter is dating an immigrant, and then gets angry because she doesn't want that her daughter dates an immigrant. At the end, the daughter succeeds in letting her mother reasoning. This short regarding about the racism in Italy and in the other countries. The Italian and the foreigners undergo racism similarly. In my opinion even if people say that they are not: it is racist.

Is there another topic in this short film?

In the film there is another topic: the migrations.

Regarding this topic the actors talk about when they migrated in Germany and there are other two men migrated in Italy (one of them is the daughter's boyfriend), who talk about their experiences at the night-school.
